By-Laws for GREX
West Coast Affiliate of the A.K. Rice Institute for the Study of Social Systems

Revised August 6, 2013

Article I.
NAME

The name of this entity is GREX: An Organization for the Study of Authority, Leadership, and Group dynamics. It was established to study social systems as complex, living organisms with specific functions to carry out. The structure and dynamics of these organisms regulate the way individuals’ roles are organized and enacted. GREX, which is the Latin word for flock, is a non-profit organization incorporated in the State of California and is the West Coast Affiliate of the A. K. Rice Institute.

Article II.
PURPOSE

GREX provides experiential learning and a variety of related application opportunities designed to increase participants’ understanding of the dynamics of groups and social systems, particularly those which relate to leadership and authority.

Based on ideas which originated at the Tavistock Clinic’s Center for the Study of Social Relations in London after WWII, and further developed by the A.K. Rice Institute in the U.S., GREX aims to further understanding of the forces that influence the achievement of organizational, social and political goals. Our method combines experience with reflection so that the unconscious elements of group and system life can be explored. Through conferences, other educational events, and consultation to individuals and organizations, GREX provides opportunities to apply group relations theory to deepen understanding and explore potential systems changes.
